Harrisburg, Pa., March 14.—Charles W. Ryan, cashier of the Harrisburg National bank, was shot to death by Henry Rowe and Weston Keeper of Lykens at noon today, in an attempt at a daring bank robbery. Rowe and Keeper drove to Hallfax from Elizabethville this morning, and, hitching their team on the outskirts of the town, boldly entered the bank of the town, boldly entered the bank with revolvers presented, and demanded that the attaches of the bank throw up their hands and turn over the money. One of them held in check Abraham Eaustenbaugh, the president, Isaac Lyter, the teller, and ex-Represenatative Swartz of Duncannon, who was in the bank on private business. The other covered Cashier Ryan, and under the menace of the revolvers the cashier collected the cash in the drawers, to the amount of $2,000, and placed it in a satchel the robbers had brought with them.

Bill in Parliament Directed Habitual Drunkards.

London, March 14.—In the house of lords today, Lord Salisbury warmly supported the Bishop of Winchester's habitual drunkard's bill. He said he was entirely in sympathy with the measure which tixes higher penalties than in the case of simple drunkenness, and especially in the case of a person drunk when in charge of a child.

The bill provides that habitual drunkenness should be treated as persistent cruelty and emtitle a wife to divorce. The sale of liquors to inebriates is forbidden. Lord Salisbury said he hoped that he or the government might succeed in passing the bill. What was ordinarily called temperance legislation was diminishing the power of obtaining intoxicants.

This class of legislation was directed against the persons guilty of intemperance, but it also affected the large body who were thereby restricted in their natural liberty by the desire of legislators to deal with inebriates, which seemed to be unjust. The bill passed its second reading. London, March 14.-In the house of Sentiment in Cache. W. R. McBride of Provo, editor of the W. R. McBride of Provo, editor of the Utah County Democrat, came in from Logan yesterday, after spending a few days in that city. Speaking of the sentiment of the people of Cache on the Evans polygamy bill which the governor vetoed yesterday, he said: "While I was in Cache I didn't find one person who was in favor of the bill. And all with whom I did talk about it said that they were opposed to it. They said that they saw no necessity for such a measure, and invariably asked the question: ure, and invariably asked the question Why should it be introduced at all? That, in brief, is the sentiment of the majority of the people there. Of course there are a few who thing it is the proper thing, but I didn't find any one of that opinion. Most of them are of that opinion. Most of them are against it, and think it folly that such a bill was ever introduced."

SENTIMENT IN HOUSE. Veto Would Be Sustained in Lower

Although the Evans bill will never again reach the house, it is a safe prediction that it would fail should it reach that body. The original vote there was 25 to 17, with 3 absentees. Thirty votes are required to pass it over the veto, and the friends of the bill concede that they could not get that many. The only man who is willing to state ovenly that he would bill concede that they could not get that many. The only man who is willing to state openly that he would change his vote is Eph Homer of Provo, who voted for the bill. He declares he would oppose it if given another opportunity. The ranks of the opposition remain solid. Not a man of them could be found last night who did not say that he was unalterably opposed to the measure. Of the three who were absent at the time the last who were absent at the time the last who were absent at the time the last vote was taken, two are known to be opposed to the bill, although they might be induced to support the measure under pressure from their constituents. Even if all three voted in the affirmative, the total strength the bill could muster would be 27, and it would therefore die.

Roosevelt Goes to Oyster Bay. Washington, March 14.—Vice President Roosevelt left Washington today for Oyster Bay.

Military men are convinced that the Boer conference will be held, to take place this week, if Dewet be over the Vaal, as is now probable, and that the Boer leaders will begin by protesting against surrender and end by accepting the terms offered by Lord Kitchener and Sir Alfred Milner after holding Botha accountable for the final collapse of their cause.

President Steyn remains in arms and is probably the most irreconcilable among the Boer leaders, but the Transvaal Dutch, in the person of Botha, have signaled for a truce, and their allies from the Orange Free State are no longer in position to insist upon fighting in the last ditch to the bitter end.

Idaho Candidate for Revenue Collectorship Explains Why Callister Cannot Get It.

As the situation is viewed by George C. Parkinson, Utah is not at all likely to walk off with the internal revenue collectorship from this district. Senator Kearns has done all that he could to get the Utah man appointed, but even he has not succeeded, for the reason, as I said, that no one of the three states can control the appointment. I recognize the fact that Idaho has the least claim for the appointment and least claim for the appointment, and that while Utah is the Republican state, Montana has by far more collections than the other two states combined. But the situation is just as I have stated. Provided that Collector Webster is given whether the situation is provided that the content of th

But there is great danger of Webster's reappointment unless Utah combines with Idaho to get it. I have no idea when the appointment will be made."

When asked if such a proposition as he outlined had not been made to Edward H. Callister, the Utah candidate for the collectorship, to induce him to withdraw from the contest, Mr. Parkinson said evasively that he had not seen the Utah man. Then Mr. Parkinson told of the unanimous support he had of the Idaho Republicans, headed by Senator Shoup, and of the strong indorsements he had received from very many of the leading and most influential Parablication. many of the leading and most influential Republicans in Utah. Replying to the statement that a large number of his Utah indorsers had withdrawn their support in favor of Mr. Callister, the gentleman from Idaho said he had received no notice of any such with-drawals, and he did not believe the story had any foundation in truth.

HOMELESS BY FIRE

Cloverport, Ky., March 14.—The bursting of a natural gas pipe at midnight started a fire that destroyed property worth half a million dollars. The greater part of this little town was completely wiped out, and over 1,000 persons, about one-half of the population, are homeless, and were in great distress until a special relief train from Louisville reached here. The heaviest loser is the American Tobacco company, which lost two large stemmeries and 1,000,000 pounds of tobacco. The company's loss has not been estimated. Bucket brigades were formed, and men and women alike fought the flames valiantly, but to no purpose. Exhausted women and children huddled in little groups, wherever shelter could be found from the biding cold of the night and early morning. Neighboring towns were asked for assistance in fighting the fire, but before it could be rendered the high wind had swept the flames through the place, making the devastation complete.

As soon as the management of the

The management also sent 5.000 loaves of management also sent 5,000 loaves of bread and other food. Not a store was bread and other food. Not a store was left in the town where a mouthful of food could be obtained. Adjutant General Murray telegraphed that 500 tents had been shipped from Frankfort, and the authorities at Louisville wired that a trainload of relief supplies quickly gathered would leave at noon.
